Lahori's growth model is beginning to outgrow its ₹10 entry architecture

The business needs more value, while the ₹10 proposition remains strategically important.

LAHORI ZEERA
APNA DESI THANDA

Strong mass equity, but the business is now moving toward higher-value consumption. The challenge is to grow beyond ₹10 without making the brand feel less accessible.

STRONG MASS EQUITY

High awareness, consideration and purchase intent.

₹10 IS A KEY ACCESSIBILITY ANCHOR

Drives trial, mass reach and distribution. Management intends to retain it.¹

INPUT COST + GROWTH PRESSURES

Rising packaging costs and scale ambitions make greater value capture important.

BUSINESS IS ALREADY EXPANDING

Larger packs (₹20/300ml to 2L) contribute 16–17% of revenue, with a long-term ambition of 30–40% of volumes.²

BUT THE CONSUMER VALUE JOURNEY IS NOT YET CLEARLY ARTICULATED

Public evidence does not yet show a clear consumer pathway from ₹10 entry to higher-value consumption.

SINGLE CORE ISSUE

How can Lahori move consumers from ₹10 entry to higher-value consumption without making the brand feel less accessible?

NOT AN AWARENESS PROBLEM

Awareness, consideration and intent show significant lift (Omax).

NOT A DIGITAL PROBLEM

Active ecosystem and commerce funnel.

NOT A COMMUNICATION PROBLEM

Distinctive and measurable campaigns.

NOT A DISTRIBUTION-LED BRAND PROBLEM

Real, but primarily an operational challenge outside the core brand issue.

Recommendation:

Accelerate the Lahori Value Ladder

Keep ₹10 as the entry point, and move consumers towards larger packs, higher-value baskets and broader occasions — without losing our accessibility equity.
